Dear [REDACTED]

Enclosed are ss. 11-14 of my forthcoming bibliography, preliminary draft. We have reached the half-way point.

Also enclosed are the first two pages of the introductory section (as yet unwritten); they should give you a better idea of the topics this bibliography covers.

These sections will be distributed to my students on Tuesday, November 29, 1966.

Just in case you are not entirely happy with this bibliography, you will be pleased to know that I'm more or less fed up with it myself, and have vowed never to try putting together another one. This bibliography requires a revised version, once I have accumulated the various reactions to the preliminary draft, however.

I checked my evaluations against the agency's own unclassified bibliography (which I have agreed not to list), and found that my evaluations closely paralleled the agency's, though my bibliography is a far more extensive one.

Respecting distribution policies, I am still awaiting various reactions: so far, I have distributed this draft bibliography to "cleared" or trusted persons only --- with the exception of my 22 students, some of whom must be regarded as "insecure".

Sincerely yours,

William R. Harris
